

In light of the massive Equifax breach, we are offering existing and potential customers a free Identity Exposure Check to assess the level of identity threat in your organization.

Provide emails and identities of 100 employees and we will:

- Identify at-risk users in your business by crawling social media information and hundreds of breach databases.
- Conduct deep web searches to find publicly available organizational data.
- Identify employees who have had their account information exposed in any of several hundred recent breaches – including if their passwords were compromised!

Your employees are exposed to advanced phishing attacks daily and it will only get worse as the Equifax data is traded and sold on the dark web.

Are you aware that many email addresses in your organization are easy for cybercriminals to find? With these addresses, they can launch social engineering, spear phishing and ransomware attacks and bring your business to a standstill.

To help prevent these attacks you should allow us to evaluate your exposure and find out which employee's email address are exposed.
